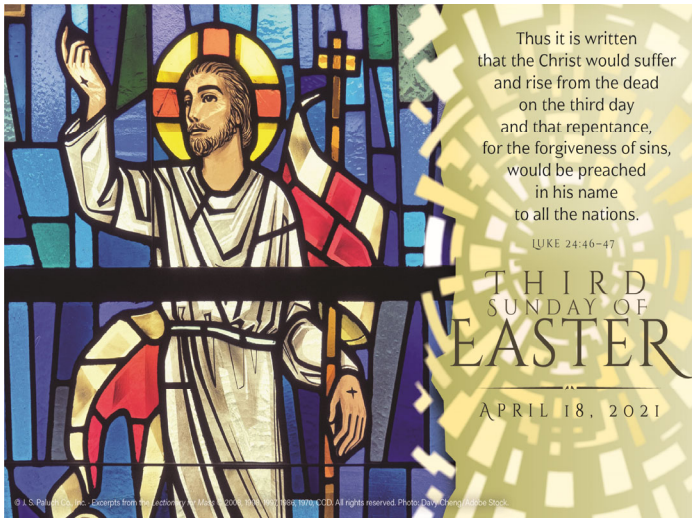
Third Sunday of Easter

Peter saw Jesus after the Resurrection. He listened as Jesus told the disciples all that had been written about him in the scriptures, all that he had said and done when he was ministering among them. Peter heard how Jesus had fulfilled all in the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms. Jesus, the Messiah, had come to be among them to bring them peace, to offer forgiveness of their sins. Peter shared this Good News with the crowds who gathered to hear him tell the sacred story, the story of God's love, poured out in Jesus the Christ and offered to the whole world. All who hear and believe are offered new life, life in which God's love is perfected in them. Are you listening? Are you ready to share in this abundant new life?

NOT WHAT WAS EXPECTED

Have you ever waited for something for so long you began to think it might never happen? Your graduation day, or the day of your marriage, or the birth of a child, perhaps. The Israelites had waited for centuries for the coming of the Messiah. Yet when Jesus, the long-awaited Anointed One came, many failed to believe in him. He wasn't what they expected. The Messiah was supposed to be a strong, powerful commander of armies, not humble, compassionate, and suffering. After his resurrection, Jesus appeared to the disciples and explained all that he had said in his time with them, opening their minds to what had been written in the scriptures so that they could accept his suffering and death and rejoice in his resurrection.



GOD'S LOVE IN FLESH AND BONE

While the disciples had come to believe that Jesus was the Messiah, his crucifixion and death had left them fearful and confounded. The news of the empty tomb and his appearance to the two disciples on the road to Emmaus added to their confusion. It seems that at first, Jesus' presence with them did not alleviate their uncertainty. In fact, they were "startled and terrified and thought they were seeing a ghost" (Luke 24:37). Jesus saw that they needed physical proof that it was he who stood among them. They needed to see the nail marks in his hands and feet, to see God's love in flesh and bone, in one who ate among them. Only when their fear and confusion had been quelled could they hear the story, the sacred story of how the Christ would suffer and rise from the dead. Only when they were filled with the peace of Christ would they be ready to witness, to share the sacred story with others. We, too, are invited to hear the sacred story and to perceive God's love for us in Jesus Christ.

Our Faith

The Second Reading

The Liturgy of the Word generally follows a consistent pattern of three readings and a psalm. The second reading is always taken from one of the New Testament epistles or the book of Revelation, and generally is not intentionally aligned with either the Gospel or the first reading. Where would we be without these letters in which great saints and apostles like Paul, Peter, James, and John share their wisdom and pastoral good sense with the early Christian communities? It is in these letters, even more than in the Gospel narratives, that we learn what it means to be church: to live with each other, in the world yet not of the world, in these days after the Lord's resurrection. Each New Testament letter was written by a particular leader for a particular community at a particular time. We are reminded of this at the beginning of the proclamation—"A reading from the letter of Saint Paul to the Ephesians," or the Corinthians, or the Thessalonians. These texts were shaped by their particular historical and cultural context, but at the same time, through the liturgy, these letters are written to us, here, today. They speak to the realities of Christian living no matter where—or when—we live. They are truly "the word of the Lord" for us.

LETTER FROM OUR PASTOR

ST. NORBERT

Friends, April 18, 2021

Today's Gospel is a continuation of the story of Emmaus. The once-discouraged disciples returned on fire after their encounter with Jesus on the road. They didn't recognize him until finally, he revealed himself to them in breaking the bread: Jesus, the ultimate food bringing us as a family together.

The Eucharistic bread revealed the real presence of Christ for these fleeing followers, just as it does for us. These disciples poured their hearts out to Jesus and shared with Him their discouragement. Their opening up in this way permitted Jesus to speak to them heart-to-heart and feed them in their need. Prayer is our chance to open our hearts in all sincerity to Jesus. Let's talk to Him about what stirs us and concerns us.

Just as he restored confidence and passion to these two disciples on their road out of Jerusalem, Jesus suddenly appeared in the locked upper room. Cowering in fear and confusion, our Lord sought them out. "Peace be with you!" He took steps to calm their questioning hearts. "Why are you troubled?" It is a question that pierces us today. It is the question to every follower who has yet to be transformed by the Resurrection. It is Jesus's question to us today: "Why are you troubled?" Why do we doubt? His question is not meant to condemn us but to prepare the way for a renewed faith. Let's talk to Jesus about our answer to His question and let Him reconfirm us in his faith and love.

On the other side of the cross, after an encounter with the resurrected Jesus, the disciples could now understand. The cross seen from the vantage point of victory makes sense. It can never be divorced from the Resurrection. No death, failure, addiction, abuse, or illness is the whole story. The victory of Jesus and His all-powerful love is what helps us endure and understand the mystery of the cross deeply. Let's spend some time reflecting on crosses and victories in our lives and how Jesus has helped us understand the truth of His word. May this experience increase our confidence and love in God.

Recently, I read a commentary on Luke's Gospel that speaks of Jesus as either going to a meal, at a meal or coming from a meal. This may be a slight overstatement, but it highlights the significance of what we've heard in today's Gospel and what we to celebrate at the table of the Lord. This Gospel, for me, brings fond memories of comfort food.

The Eucharist that we share is the "ultimate comfort food." My favorite comfort food was Mom's clams and spaghetti. Served only on special occasions, no meal pleased me so much as this one. The thought of it brings memories of a family together united as one. The Eucharist unites us, ties us to our faith roots, and strengthens us for the future task of witnessing Jesus' message.

Let's all partake in the ultimate comfort food to strengthen us to proclaim the good news of Jesus Christ.

Happy Easter!

Fr. Steve

ON THE WAY HE WALKED

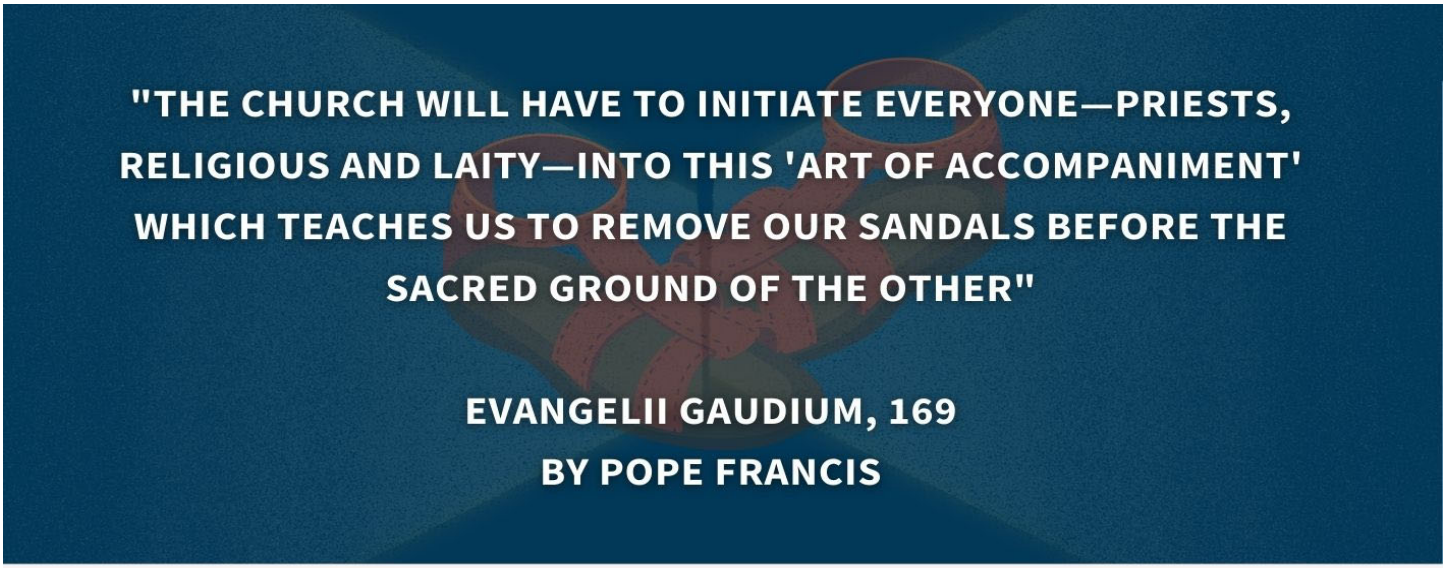
This week in the Gospel we hear the account that is called "The Road to Emmaus". Two of Jesus' followers are leaving Jerusalem - probably because they think everything Christ stood for ended with his death. They were "getting out of dodge" before the trouble started and headed back to their old life, for it seemed the new life they had begun with Jesus was over. They must have felt disappointed and confused.

As they go, a stranger joins them and unpacks scripture in a way that made their "hearts burn within them". At the end of the journey, the sit down to a meal and, as the bread is broken, the stranger reveals himself to be Jesus. He then disappears from their sight and they return eagerly to rejoin the Apostles back in Jerusalem.

There are so many things to reflect upon from this account! But we want to focus on one specific aspect ; that is, how Jesus accompanied his followers. Not only did He walk with them in their physical journey to Emmaus, but He accompanied them in the spiritual journey as well. He didn't write them off because they were leaving Jerusalem and the other disciples. But instead Jesus met them where they were - in a place of uncertainty and confusion.

Jesus does the same for us. He meets us right where we are. He doesn't wait for us to be perfect to walk with us. In fact, we don't have to be anything for Jesus to want to be with us. While we are called to holiness, its not required for Jesus to love and walk with us. It's through the walking and loving that we become holy. He meets us where we are, but doesn't leave us there.

As we spend the Easter season diving deeper into SERVE, it is good to reflect on this. When serving others, do I meet them where they are or do I expect them to come to me? Do I accept people as they are or do I dismiss them until they are as I want to be? Do I leave others where they are or do I walk slowly and lovingly with them on the road to holiness?



WALK, LISTEN, THEN TALK

Adapted from the article "Accompanying Youth and Young Adults on Their Journey as Missionary Disciples" by Julianne Stanz and Tom East

Walking with others means meeting them where they are. A large part of a person's life is centered on questions such as, "Who am I?" "What is my life's purpose?" "Who am I to others?" and "How can I contribute to society?" Authenticity and accompaniment go hand-in-hand. People are interested in making connections with their peers and forming lasting relationships. Deep pastoral listening is the starting point for accompanying young people in their journey of discipleship. Apostolic Nuncio Archbishop Christophe Pierre remarks that "we are called to listen." If we are to help people discern God's plan for their lives, we might ask: what are they looking for? They are looking to be heard. The idea of accompaniment implies going to them and being with them. To this, we add listening to them. Listening is an important element of discernment. Pope Francis said: "I think that in the pastoral ministry of the Church many beautiful things are being done, many beautiful things... But there is one thing that we must do more, even the priests, even the lay people, but above all the priests must do more: the apostolate of listening: to listen!'"

Maggie Melchoir, a young adult in the Diocese of Green Bay stated, "Relationships are in many ways the nexus of young adult life. Young adults are looking for connections in their life to link them to a local and broader community. Successful ministry includes natural ways for young people to meet and develop friendships." Providing mentoring opportunities for youth and young adults represents an opportunity for parish ministry. Mentoring involves not only helping people to understand the faith but to model what a lived faith looks like. In this regard, mentoring equips young people for mission. "Catechesis encourages an apprenticeship in Christian living that is based on Christ's teachings about community life. It should encourage a spirit of simplicity and humility, a special concern for the poor, particular care for the alienated, a sense of fraternal correction, common prayer, mutual forgiveness and a fraternal love that embraces all these attitudes." Guiding people to identify moments in their life when the Holy Spirit is moving helps to equip them for evangelization and for witness.
