27TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Vineyards were an essential part of the economy of Israel during the times of Isaiah and Jesus. Vineyard owners had the difficult challenge of producing a rich harvest. Our readings from Isaiah and Matthew describe God and God's creation in terms of the business of vineyards. The two stories are closely linked, as Jesus borrowed and adapted his parable from Isaiah. Using this rich imagery, we can see the vineyard as all the places of God's creation and ongoing work. The vineyard is our heart, mind, and body. The vineyard is our family, neighborhood, and parish. The vineyard is the larger Church and society, humanity and the earth itself. We are stewards in each of these vineyards, blessed to enjoy them, and held accountable for their continuing fruitfulness. We are called to join God in cultivating these vineyards, so that they may produce an abundant harvest.

HIGHLY PASSIONATE

The tales of the vineyard in Isaiah and in Matthew point to the larger story of God and God's people. We see that God is intensely passionate about us. God is deeply committed, like the landowner who diligently prepares the vineyard. God has high expectations that the vineyard produce the fruit of a just and compassionate society. God is highly disappointed and angry that the vineyard has produced bad fruit (Isaiah), or has been treated as a prize to be seized (Matthew).

There are more chapters in the larger story that also need to be told. Later in Isaiah and in Matthew, we see that God is also deeply compassionate and forgiving. Isaiah speaks of God's tender care, as a mother loves her child (Isaiah 49). In Matthew, Jesus demonstrates God's forgiveness most dramatically on the cross. God is indeed most patient and resilient. God never gives up on us. God continues to pursue us, offering us love and grace, now and always.

THE CORNERSTONE

The powerful conclusions of the two vineyard tales are meant to linger in our memories. God indeed expects much of us, to live justly and mercifully. However, we know that God is not prickly and impatient, as we might be led to imagine if we read these stories out of context. The stories do invite us to ponder again who God really is. Especially during times of difficulty or of failure in our lives, we might wonder how we might best understand the mystery of God.

The witness of the New Testament is clear. If you want to know what God is like, look at Jesus. Look at his patience and mercy. Look at his compassion for the suffering, his passion for justice. Look also at the joy and healing experienced by those in his presence. As today's Gospel passage indicates, Jesus is the cornerstone, the starting point of coming to know our God.

St. Norbert Parish aspires to become one in Christ as a community of fervent disciples, who listen attentively for the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and who lovingly embrace Jesus, present in the poor, the alienated and the spiritually hungry.

Stewardship

Being Loveable

One of St. Paul's favorite topics was prayer, and today's reading from his letter to the Philippians is no exception to that. He says, "Have no anxiety at all, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, make your requests known to God." For Paul all topics are appropriate for prayer because we need to share and consult with the Lord about everything.

God knows what is on our minds already, of course, but He also desires that we make a conscious effort to communicate with Him on these subjects. In addition, Paul points out that our prayers need to be infused with thanksgiving. We should not just petition the Lord and make requests. It is equally important that we think about, identify, and acknowledge our blessings.

We have often pointed out that stewardship is a life of gratitude, a way of living which encourages us to focus on gifts, not on problems and challenges all the time. If we strive to have grateful hearts, our prayers come much more easily, and we tend to be much happier and more upbeat in our lives.

The noted author, philosopher, journalist, and theologian G. K. Chesterton is well known in Catholic circles because he converted to Catholicism during his life, and was an excellent conveyor of the faith. In terms of living grateful lives he said, "I would maintain that thanks are the highest form of thought; and that gratitude is happiness doubled by wonder." That includes thanks to God. ©catholicsteward.com

SOMETHING TO THINK & PRAY ABOUT . . .

“LOSING MY RELIGION”

I recently started reading a new book called iGen: Why Today's Super-Connected Kids Are Growing Up Less Rebellious, More Tolerant, Less Happy — and Completely Unprepared for Adulthood and What That Means for the Rest of Us.

The book is written by Jean M. Twenge, PhD, a Professor of Psychology at San Diego State University.

I first heard of this book when listening to a talk by Bishop Robert Barron, Auxiliary Bishop of Los Angeles.

The book identifies our most recent generation with the title “iGen” (1995-2012) referring to the fact that this generation one might say were born with an iPhone in their hand. They are very different from the Boomers (1946-1964), GenX (1965-1979) and Millennials (1980-1994) because, according to Dr. Twenge, Facebook opened up to anyone over the age of 13 in 2006 and thus, iGens have been born to live their entire adolescence on social networking sites.

For those who love statistics, this book is for you. I, however, barely made it through my statistics class in college, so it was a challenge. However, Chapter 5 has been particularly interesting to me. It is titled:

“Irreligious: Losing My Religion (And Spirituality).

I am not encouraging one to read the book, but I must say the final paragraph summary by the author presents a serious challenge for “organized” religion.

“Religion will survive, but it will be a flexible, open, equal religion that gives people a sense of belonging and meaning and that reaches less than half of Americans. It is unclear where iGen’ers will find community interaction to replace religion. Perhaps they won’t find it at all, content to rely on their social media network, with deleterious impacts on their mental health. Or perhaps iGen’ers will affiliate with others who share their interests rather than building community through religion. Either way the structure of American community will fundamentally change.”

This will indeed present a challenge. I had a sense in reading the book that this must have been how those individuals in Old Testament times felt when confronting the issues of their day and the challenges they faced to stay focused on God’s call.

All the more reason that we, as the Body of Christ, need to build a community of personal relationships that encourage an encounter with Jesus.

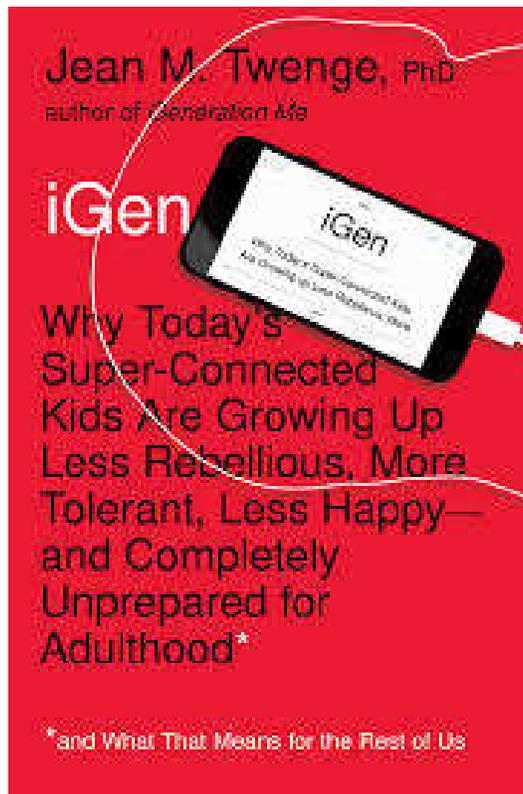

It also challenges us to approach the iGen’ers and even all of our parishioners with new media and communications that creatively capture what a personal relationship with Jesus can do for your life.

I hope you will join me and let me know your suggestions for tackling this daunting challenge.

Please stop by the Welcome Desk in the Narthex at the back of Church or send me a message using one of the kiosks on the wall.

As Pope Francis said, “We need to be a field hospital” and we need to be Fervent Disciples lovingly embracing Jesus present in the spiritually hungry. Let’s together feed the sheep. – Fr. Mike

YOUNG ADULTS BONFIRE NIGHT . . .

SPIRITUAL TRANSITIONS

As young adults, we often ask ourselves questions regarding our future vocation/career, relationships, the way we relate with God, and many other things. These are key times in our lives when transition seems to be a particular life task. With that in mind, the St. Norbert Young Adults will hold a Bonfire Night on Tuesday, Oct 24, at 7:30 PM, outside at the fire pit area behind the parish office building. Heather Makowicz, a spiritual director at Daylesford Abbey and a parishioner at St. Norbert's, will give a brief talk/reflection on transitions and our spiritual life. Heather will talk about times of growth and change and how they can relate to our spirituality and prayer life. There will also be time for quiet reflection and an invitation to share what you have discovered. Then time to hang out, socialize, and of course, eat s'mores. :) Bring a chair or a blanket to sit on.
