A Gentle Reminder

Please contact the parish office when a person has recovered from an illness or no longer serves in the military so this information may be updated accordingly.

Friends,

For many, Labor Day weekend marks a transition from the hectic pace of the summer to the new hectic pace of the school year. For students and teachers, it's also a window into the new school year when we begin the work of education. Through authentically Christian education, we're invited to be drawn into a fuller way of life.

Adam and Eve worked in the garden. For us, work is to participate in Jesus's continuing mission. Jesus viewed his entire life and mission as work. He always did the "work" of the One who sent Him. We're invited to live in the same way.

The early Christians knew the dignity of all human work. Even their early worship became known as "liturgy," which meant the "work" of the Church. For them, the real world was not a place to be avoided - it was their workshop! They were there to bring everyone to Christ.

When Jesus took on the human form, it included labor. The Son of God worked. As a child, he learned from Joseph working with wood. He sweated and got dirty, but because He was in communion with His Heavenly Father, his work joined with the Father's work.

The Catholic Catechism says: "Human work proceeds directly from persons created in the image of God and called to prolong the work of creation by subduing the earth, both with and for one another. Hence, work is a duty: "If anyone will not work, let him not eat."

Our work honors God's gifts and talents received from him. It can also be redemptive. By enduring the hardship of work in union with Jesus, we collaborate with the Son of God in his redemptive work. We become disciples of Christ by carrying the cross in the work we're called to accomplish.

Labor Day invites us to examine how we view our labor in the light of Church teachings. The Church proclaims the dignity of all human work, no matter what kind, because it's done by people created in the image and likeness of God.

Blessings,

Fr. Steve

Remembrance Candles

Week of 9/3

Blessed Mother Candle burns for
Anne Nancy McCardell

Saint Joseph Candle burns for

Amigos,

Para muchos, el fin de semana del Día del Trabajo marca la transición del ritmo frenético del verano al nuevo ritmo frenético del curso escolar. Para alumnos y profesores, es también una ventana abierta al nuevo curso escolar, en el que comenzamos la labor educativa. A través de una educación auténticamente cristiana, se nos invita a adentrarnos en una forma de vida más plena.

Adán y Eva trabajaron en el jardín. Para nosotros, trabajar es participar en la misión continua de Jesús. Jesús vio toda su vida y su misión como un trabajo. Siempre hizo la "obra" de Aquel que le envió. Estamos invitados a vivir de la misma manera.

Los primeros cristianos conocían la dignidad de todo trabajo humano. Incluso su culto primitivo llegó a conocerse como "liturgia", que significaba el "trabajo" de la Iglesia. Para ellos, el mundo real no era un lugar que había que evitar: ¡era su taller! Estaban allí para llevar a todos a Cristo.

Cuando Jesús tomó la forma humana, incluyó el trabajo. El Hijo de Dios trabajó. De niño, aprendió de José a trabajar la madera, sudaba y se ensuciaba, pero como estaba en comunión con su Padre Celestial, su trabajo se unía al trabajo del Padre.

El Catecismo católico dice: "El trabajo humano procede directamente de personas creadas a imagen de Dios y llamadas a prolongar la obra de la creación sometiendo la tierra, los unos con los otros y los unos para los otros. De ahí que el trabajo sea un deber: "El que no quiera trabajar, que no coma".

Nuestro trabajo honra los dones de Dios y los talentos recibidos de Él. También puede ser redentor. Al soportar las penurias del trabajo en unión con Jesús, colaboramos con el Hijo de Dios en su obra redentora, nos convertimos en discípulos de Cristo llevando la cruz en el trabajo que estamos llamados a realizar.

El Día del Trabajo nos invita a examinar cómo vemos nuestro trabajo a la luz de las enseñanzas de la Iglesia. La Iglesia proclama la dignidad de todo trabajo humano, sea del tipo que sea, porque lo realizan personas creadas a imagen y semejanza de Dios.

Bendiciones,

Fr. Steve
